Davis, Lucretia J. Davis, his wife. John C. Weems, administrator with the will approved of the cetete of Leceph Dishipson annexed of the estate of Joseph Dickinson Thorpe, Joseph Thornton and Ann R. Thornton, his wife, Charles E. Rittenhouse and -

Taylor, defendants. In chancery.

Memo. The object of the above suit is to establish a certain deed of trust made by defendant William H. Davis and wife to William H. Dulany, trustee, upon a certain tract of land in Fairfax county, Virginia, consisting of about 7500 acres, known as the Thornton tract, fully described in said deed of trust, which was executed about August 17, 1869, and recorded in the office of the Clerk of the county of Fairfax, about Sept. 14, 1869, and made to secure the payment of certain notes described in said deed of trust, amounting to $150,000, made by said Davis to the order of said Rittenhouse, and endorsed by him and said Joseph Thornton, a large portion of which are owned by the plainlarge portion of which are owned by the plaintiffs, as the firstilien upon the said tract of land to procure the said property to be sold for the purpose of enforcing payment of the said notes held by the plaintiff, to have adjudged and decreed certain alleged assignments of liens by Joseph Thornton to Joseph Dickinson Thorpe, and claimed by said Administrator of his estate to be the first lien upon said property to be invalid and void as to these plaintiffs, and to obtain personal judgments against said maker and endorsers of said notes for the amount thereof, with interest, and for the relief prayed for in the bill tiled.

The defendants, Charles E. Rittenhouse and Rittenhouse, his wife, William H. Davis and Lucretia J. Davis, his wife, and Joseph Thornton, not having entered their appearance and given security according to the act of Assembly and the rules of this Court, and it appearing by attidavit that they are not residents of this State, it is ordered that the said defendants appear here within one month after due publication of this order, and do what is necessary to protect their interests in this suit; and that a copy of this order be forthwith inserted in the Alexandria Gazette, a newspaper published in the city of Alex-dria, once a week for four successive weeks, and posted at the front door of the Court House of

Dear Sir—I take the pleasure of writing you a small certificate concerning Vegetine prepared small certificate concerning Vegetine prepared by you. I have been a sufferer with the Dyspepsia for over forty years, and have had the Chronic Diarrhea for six months, and have tried most every thing; was given up to die, and did not expect to live from day to day, and no physician could touch my case. I saw your Vegetine recommended to cure Dyspepsia. I commenced using it, and I continued doing so, and am now a well woman and restored to perfect health. All who are sfflicted with this terrible disease I would kindly recommend to try it for the bennfit of their health, and it is excellent as a bood purifier.

All diseases of the blood—If Vegetine will relieve pain, cleanse, purify and cure such diseases, restoring the patient to perfect health after trying different physicians, many remedies, suffering for years, is it not conclusive proof, if you are a sufferer, you can be cured? Why is this medicine performing such great cures? It works in the blood, in the circulating fluid. It can truly be called the Great Blood Purifer. The great source of disease originates in the blood; and no medicine that does not act directly upon it, to purify and renovate, has any just claim it, to purify and renovate, has any just claim upon public attention.

tribunals a tradgedy which throws into the shade the gloomiest imaginings of the old Greek playwrights. It is the murder of a mother by her son, a child nine years old. The story is one of the most appalling in the whole annals of human crime, and withal it is heart touching as showing the misdirection of a noble nature; for the motive of the crime was bonor, and the son slew his mother that her blood might wash out the stain her infidelity had put upon her husband's name. The case is a most remarkable one. There seems to be no evidence of a vicious disposition on the part of the boy. On the contrary, he seems to have had a loving heart, and to have been tenderly attached to his dead father; but a cloud came over his young existence, when his mother, forgetting her duty to the living and the dead, contracted an illicit alliance with a government employee. The woman seems to have troubled hersell little to conceal her amours from her son, thinking that a child of such tender years would not be likely to pay any attention to her actions. She does not seem to have over suspected the precocious sensibility of her his mother from the path of shame. Throwing aside all fear, he reproved the widow for her infidelity to her dead husband. and besought her to return to her duty by respect to the memory of the dead and out of tispect to her son. The mother treated these remonstrances lightly, and burst out laughing at the child. Without even deigning to hear him to the end, she advised him to occupy himself with matters more appropriate to his age.

the same reception. Feeling that it was useless to appeal to the better nature of his mother the child conceived the horrible design of washing out in her blood the stain she persisted in putting on his name, and which he knew was no longer a secret for the neighbors. Having once made up his mind his thoughts became wholly absorbed in plans for carrying his vengeance into execution. -Wherever he went he carried with him this idea of avenging the injured honor of his name. In solitude he pondered over it, until it became in his eyes a holy duty. Beside this child of nine years taking upon his conscience the responsibility of judge and executioner, thinking and planning before taking action, Hamlet tormented by visions and simulating madness is only capable of inspiring pity. The heart is moved at the thought of the anguish the child must have suffered. First he dug the grave. This was for his infant hands a long and painful labor. When he had everything prepared tongue, dismissed him curtly. This action of the widow decided her son to carry out his murderous resolution. The fellowing night he again entered his mother's bedroom and, finding her asleep, with one blow of the hatchet he killed her. He then took the body, which he dragged to the grave he

The trial of this strange parrieide is progresing in the town of Valok, in the government of Kharkow. Seldom have the Russian people been so interested in a criminal trial, but the sight of a child nine years old standing in the dock as the assassin of his mother is well calculated to excite the compassionate sympathy nmong the people by whom the family ties are regarded with something of the respect of the patriarchal times. ICE CREAM. My Ice Cream Manufactory, one of the largest in Virginia, still continues to supply private customers, Sunday schools, excursions, picnics fairs, festivals and associations, as well as the trade, with that SUPERIOR CREAM that has trade, with that SUPERIOR CREAM that has made a name in this community, and is known everywhere as BRENGLE'S ICE CREAM. I could easily reduce its price by lowering its quality, but good cream, of fresh, pure, wholesome ingredients, cannot be furnished at a less price than I serve it. Of course, I could "grade my cream by the price," but my cream would lose the good name that years of fair dealing have won for it. I ask that persons abroad ordering "Brengle's Cream" from third parties will assure themselves that the cream sent is certainly from my establishment. he resolved to execute his terrible purpose. One night, while his mother slept, he armed himself with a hatchet and silently approached her bed. When his eyes rested on the author of his being his resolution was shaken. He gazed on the face he had long loved and toish heart, and, bursting into tears, he fell on his knees before his mother's bed. There the moraing light found him stretched in slumber with the deadly hatchet still clasped in his tiny hands. When his mother rose she was terribly fright-ened at the sight. She awoke the boy, who explained his presence by a peasant fable, and then took the opportunity to once more beseech his mother to dismiss her lover and return to the path of honor. She, however, lost her
